Proclaiming Evidence for Truth

THIS WEEK'S CREATION MOMENT

Scientific Proof

O Timothy, keep that which is committed to thy trust, avoiding profane and vain babblings, and oppositions of science falsely so called. – 1 Timothy 6:20

During a radio interview on the BBC, Richard Dawkins once said, "The view that all living organisms have a common ancestor, from which they have evolved, is the correct one." Statements like these often intimidate the layman into thinking that certain ideas in science, such as evolution, must have been proven beyond all reasonable doubt.

Of course, nothing could be further from the truth. Even serious articles and books written from an evolutionary standpoint have to acknowledge the nature of their theories. Evolutionists like to criticize less experienced creationists if the latter say something like, "But evolution is only a theory." They will wax lyrical on how a scientific theory is something designed to fit all the available facts and evidences. Yet, evolutionary theory fails to do that. It is indeed true that a theory cannot be proved. It can, of course, be disproved. While large amounts of evidence can be accumulated to support a theory, the theory fails if just one piece of evidence is found which contradicts the theory.

There are innumerable pieces of evidence which do not fit into an evolutionary framework. Therefore, the theory ought to fall, but it doesn't. The reason why it is difficult to overturn people's belief in the theory of evolution is that so many people have invested heavily in it.

Those of us who believe the Bible note that scientific principles are consistent with our belief because this is a firm foundation on which to build.
